

Student and Apprentice Protection Plan

Introduction

The purpose of the Student and Apprentice Protection Plan is to preserve the continuity and quality of study for all of the College's students and apprentices, whenever possible when these are at risk.

The plan outlines the range of risks to the continuation of study for students and apprentices at the College, along with the measures that have been put in place to mitigate these risks.

Our commitment to applicants and students

The College mission statement is to realise potential and support success'. The vision is:

'To give our learners the best possible education, training and personal support so they may:

- Gain employment in their chosen vocation.
- Further develop their career.
- Progress to higher education.
- Realise their full potential.
- Make a positive contribution to the community.'

Risks to the continuation of study for our students

Unforeseen events may affect the continuation of study for our students and apprentices. These risks may arise from:

- Closure and/or suspension of courses.
- Course or module changes prior to enrolment.
- Unanticipated departure of key delivery staff.
- Quality assurance issues.
- Closure of a College campus.
- Withdrawal of a course.
- Withdrawal of a franchise partner.
- Withdrawal or failure of a subcontractor.
- The College entering into insolvency proceedings.
- The College entering into a merger.

Student and Apprentice Protection

Current students and apprentices

All reasonable steps will be taken to minimise the risk of disruption and ensure that current students and apprentices can continue their studies. The College is committed to early communication of changes that may impact students and apprentices.

If a risk materialises:

Students/apprentices will be provided with clear information and options. Where possible, current students/apprentices will be taught out and complete the course for which they are enrolled.

- Material changes (to the structure or content of the course) should not be made after enrolment, but where this is unavoidable, students will be consulted at the earliest opportunity and, where practicable, their views shall be considered.
- Where it may be necessary to revise timetabling, to relocate to a different campus or to deliver the course via alternative means, such as online learning, following consultation with, and agreement of, current students, an equality impact assessment will be conducted and arrangements put in place.
- If students / apprentices feel they are adversely affected (except in the event of the College complying with government advice), they may cancel their contract with the College and claim a refund (where applicable).

In order to ensure full compliance with the Consumer Rights Act 2015 and related regulations, students/apprentices will be given the fullest information, advice and guidance to enable them to make informed decisions about their next steps. Where continuation at the College is not possible, the College will:

- Support the students/apprentices by providing a range of options, for example, study at another location, study at the franchise partner, or transfer to another provider.
- Provide all necessary information, advice, guidance and support to facilitate students/apprentices in deciding which option to follow.
- Ensure that the College Tutor and Academic Link tutor (where applicable support the students/apprentices based on their individual circumstances
- record the amount of credit and academic progress achieved, with our well-established student / apprentice tracking procedures
- Where there is demonstrable, material financial loss, compensate or refund students/apprentices in line with guidelines for refunding all or part of paid fees in the College's Fee and Remission Policy

Student and Apprentice Protection

Applicants

All reasonable steps will be taken to minimise changes between the publication of course information and commencement of courses. The College is committed to early communication of changes that may impact students/apprentices. In light of a risk crystallising, student/apprentices will be provided with clear information and options:

- Where material changes (to the structure or content of the course) are made between the publication of the prospectus and enrolment, the College will inform the applicant of the changes as soon as possible and advise them of their right to continue their application, seek entry to another College programme for which they are qualified, or withdraw their application, cancel their contract with the College and seek entry elsewhere.
- Where courses are closed or suspended, applicants who have accepted offers will be contacted as soon as possible. Applicants thus affected will be informed of their options to seek entry to another College programme for which they are qualified or to withdraw their application, cancel their contract with the College and seek entry elsewhere.
- In the event of a programme closure, suspension or material changes to programme content, all communications with applicants will be undertaken via Admissions.
- UCAS and relevant awarding bodies will be updated when a course closure or suspension has been finalised by the College's Central Management Team. The College has clear guidelines for refunding all or part of paid fees in the College's Student Fee Recovery and Refund Policy.

Monitoring and Review

In the event of a trigger of the Student and Apprentice Protection Plan, students will be contacted within five working days of the date of when a risk to the continued study of students crystallises.

Students wishing to provide feedback on the Student and Apprentice Protection Plan should follow the College's complaints procedure.

The Student and Apprentice Protection Plan will be reviewed and updated to reflect changes every two years.
